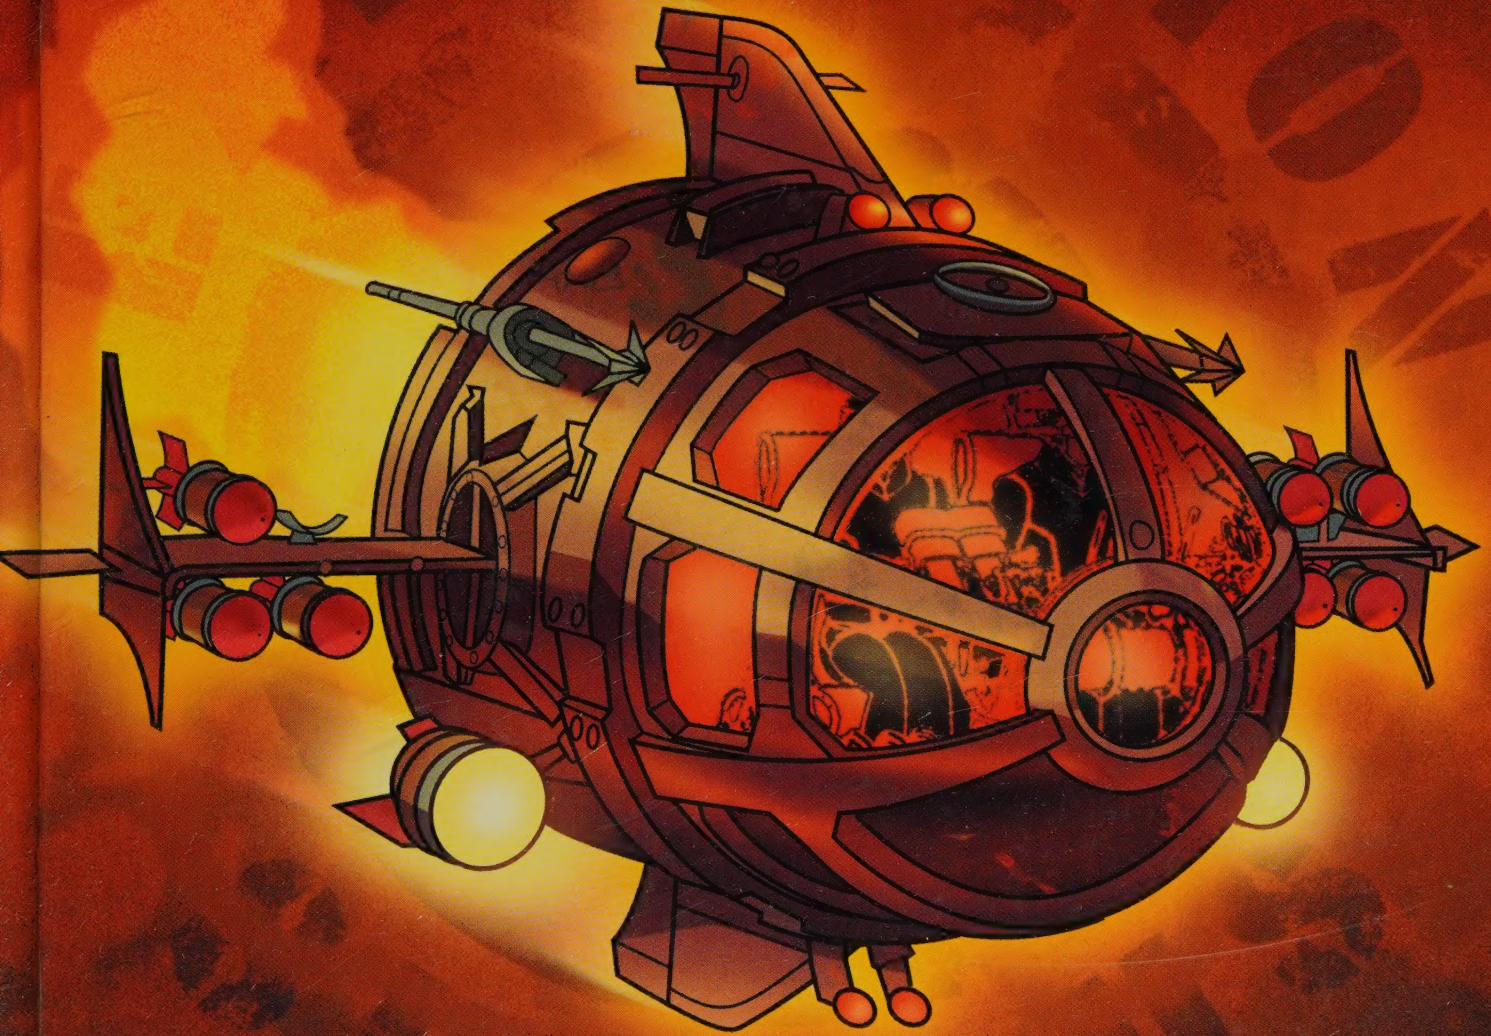
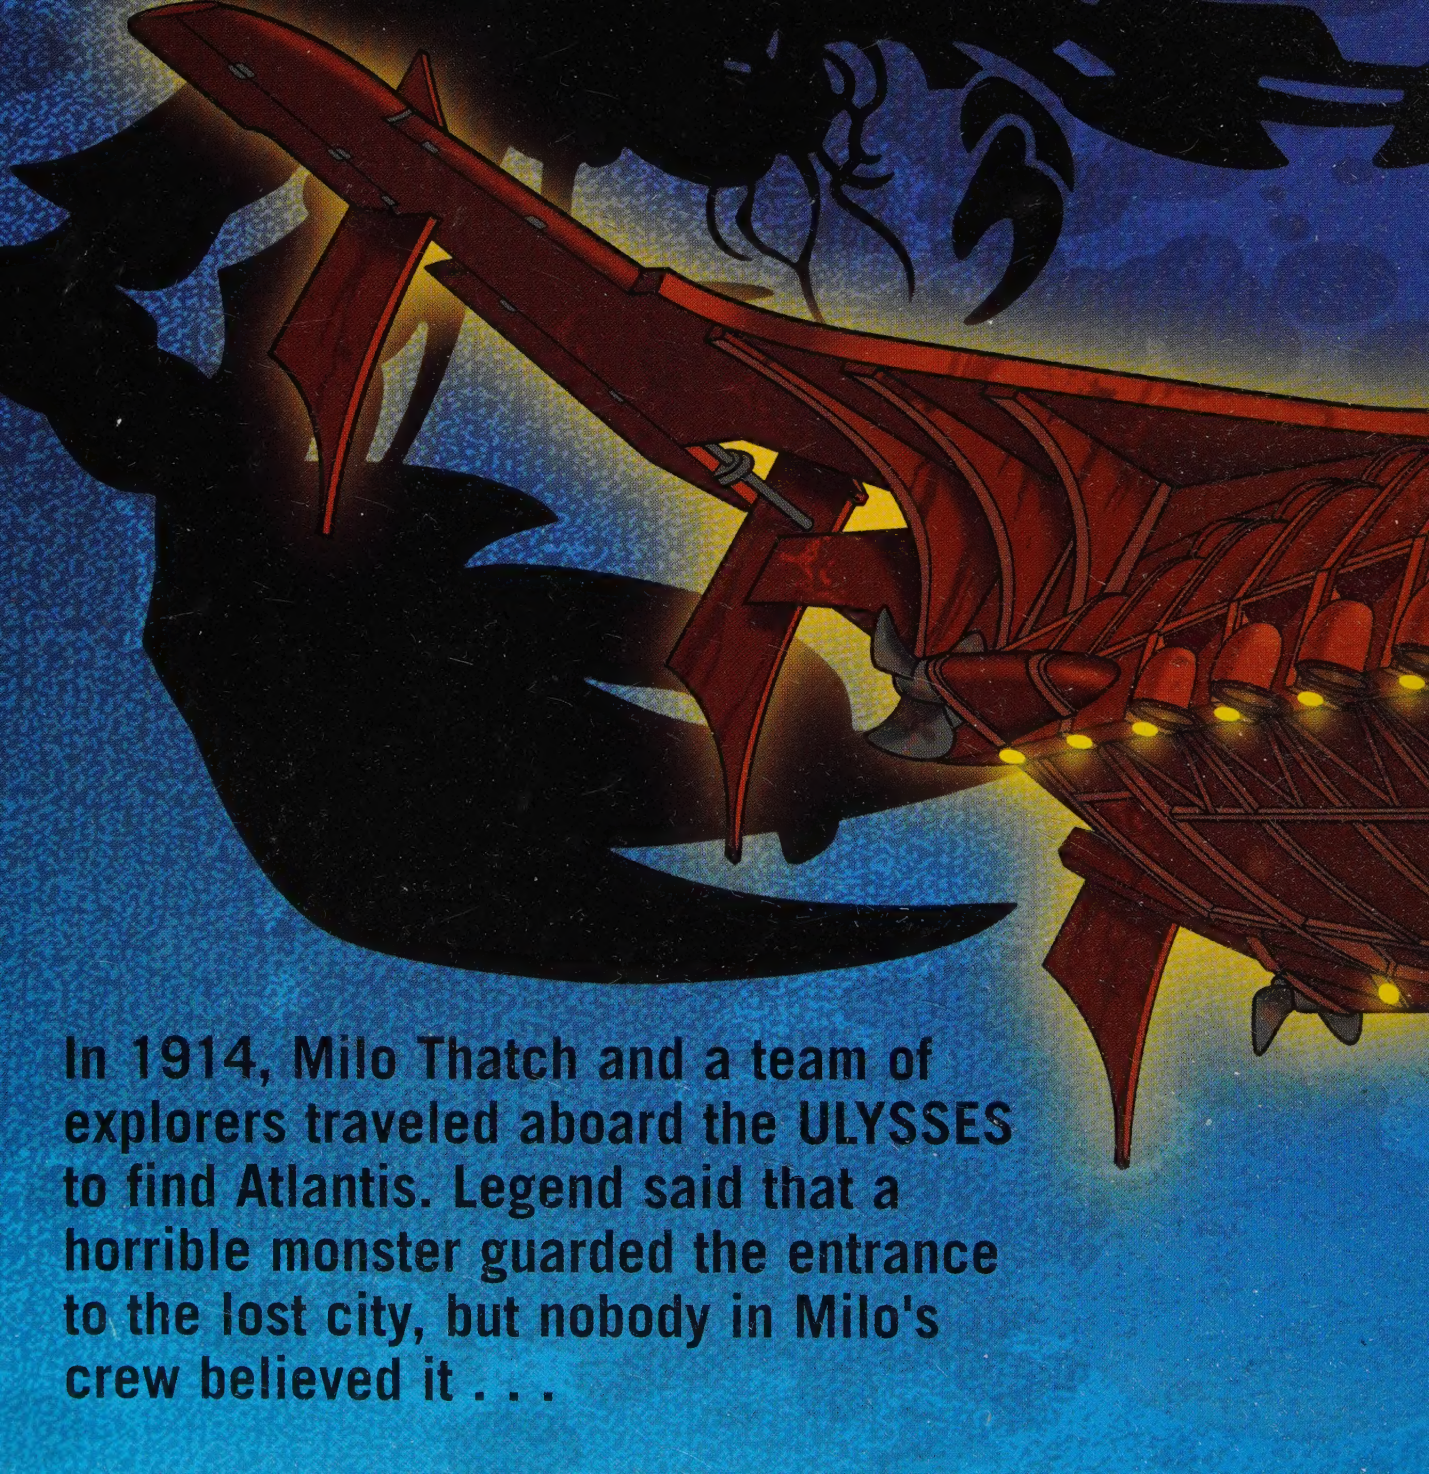
ATLANTIS

THE LOST EMPIRE



ADVENTURE VEHICLES

Pull-A-Page



In 1914, Milo Thatch and a team of explorers traveled aboard the ULYSSES to find Atlantis. Legend said that a horrible monster guarded the entrance to the lost city, but nobody in Milo's crew believed it . . .

. . . until the Leviathan attacked!

The crew of the ULYSSES put up a good fight, but the submarine was damaged in the battle. They had to escape the sinking sub right away.

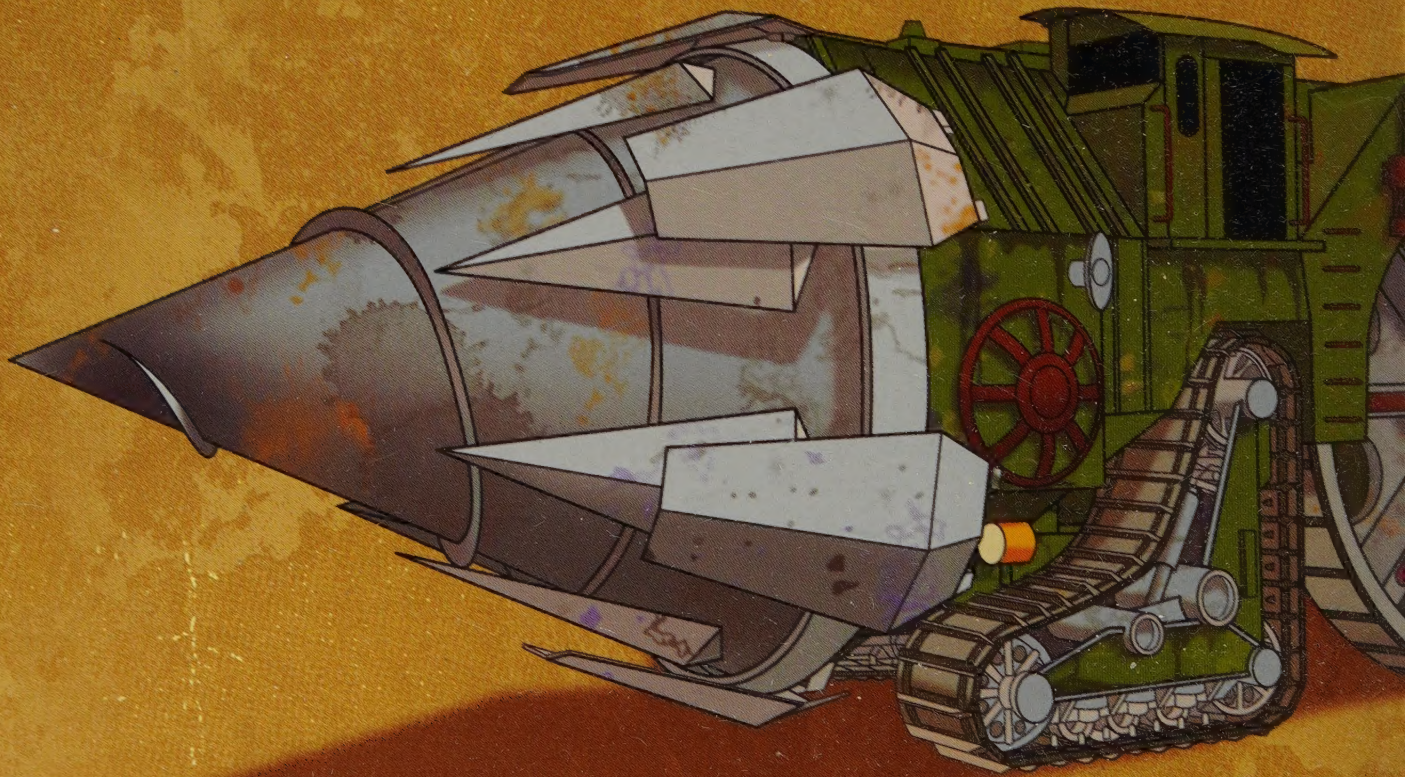
ATHAN

SUBPODS

Milo and the rest of the crew fled in the aqua-evacs and subpods. They found their way to safety in an underwater air pocket.

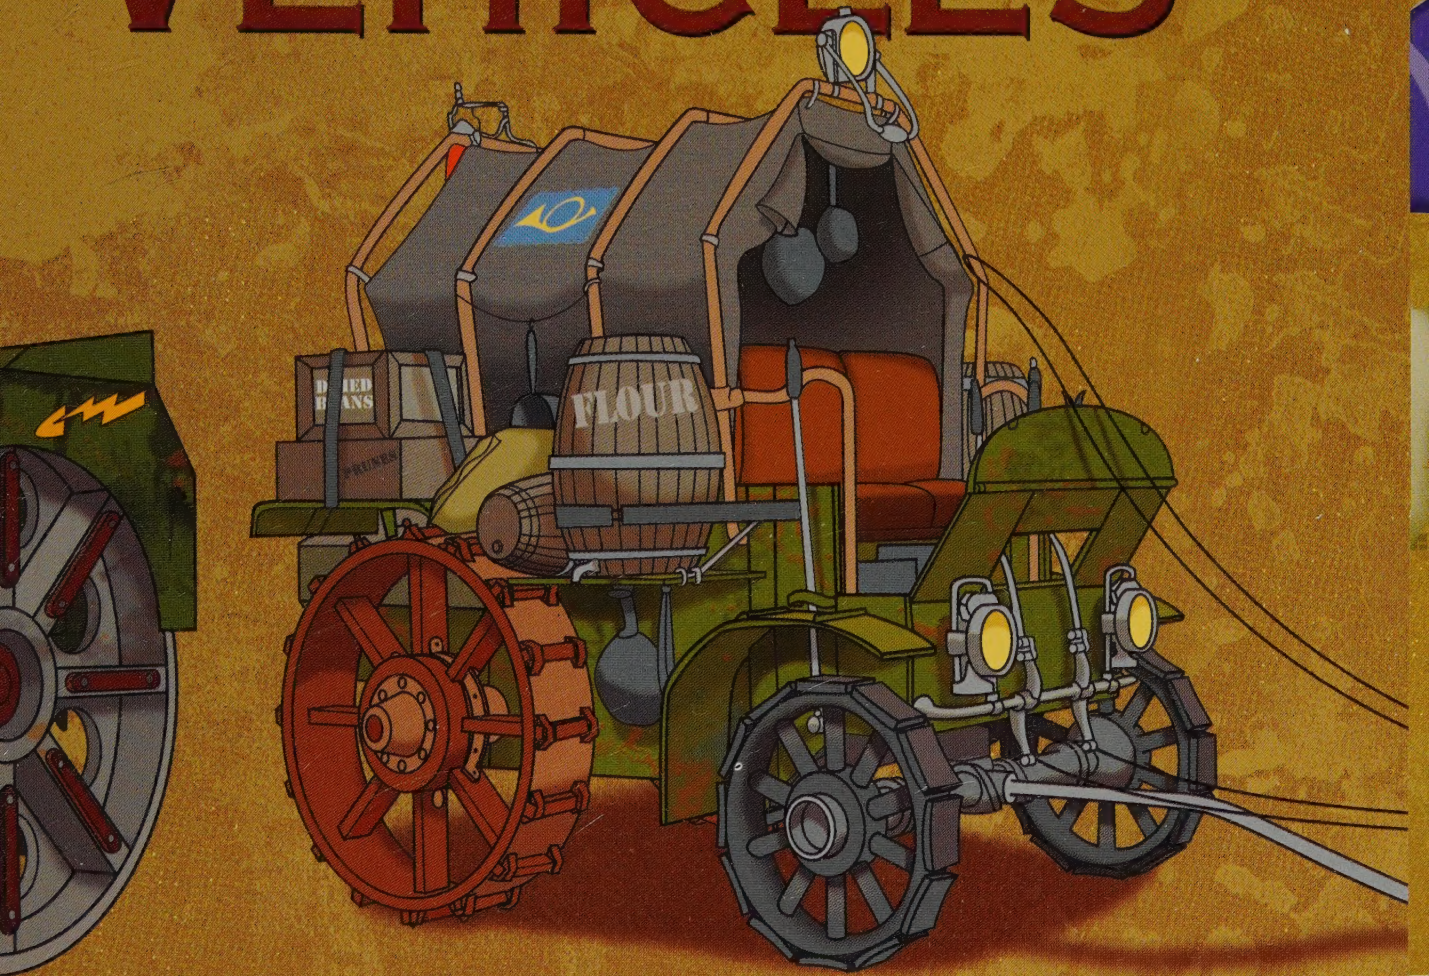
EXPEDITION

Now the crew could get back to the real job of looking for Atlantis. They had brought many vehicles to help them find the lost city.



The digger's maximum drilling speed is 8 miles per hour.

VEHICLES



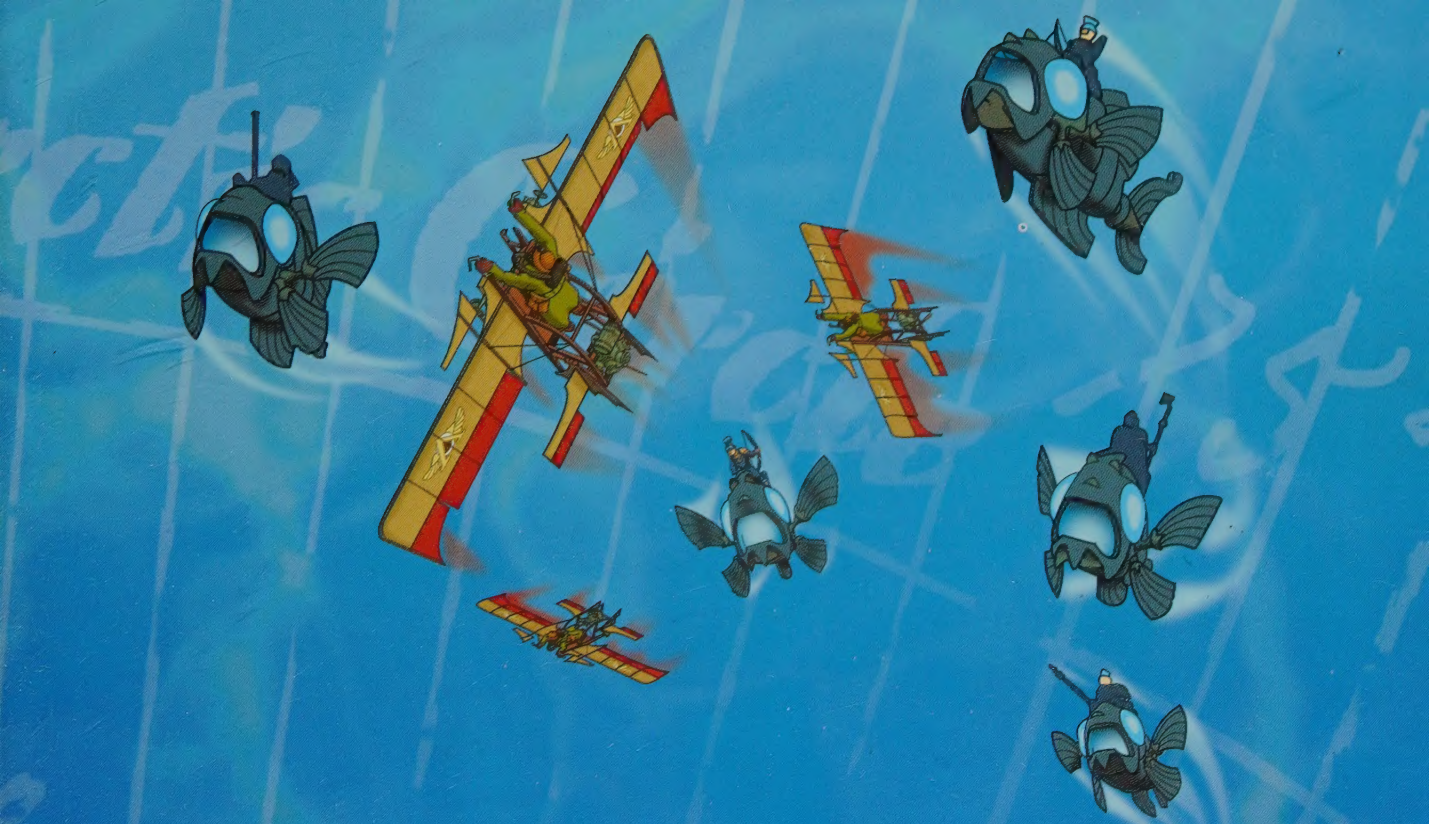
WHITMORE'S WINGS

When Rourke, the evil commander of the crew, tried to steal the Crystal of Atlantis, there was a fierce air battle between the Atlanteans and Rourke's troopers!

MARTAGS

The Atlantean armada's Martags are flying fighters powered by the Crystal. Made of solid stone, they weigh 7.42 nayut—almost 7,000 pounds!

The gyro-evac balloon can carry up to six people and has a maximum airspeed of 20 miles per hour.



GYRO-EVAC

Rourke tried to escape in the gyro-evac balloon, but Milo stopped him with the help of the Atlantean armada. After saving the city, Milo decided to stay in Atlantis and make it his home.
